PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Large 20th Century Metal Eagle Sculpture, Signed "RubIN" This striking large-scale metal sculpture depicts an eagle poised on a branch with wings partially outstretched, captured in a moment of tension and movement. Crafted in the 20th century, the work is formed from hammered and welded metal elements, giving the surface a richly textured, expressive quality. The eagle's powerful stance, sharply modeled beak, and layered feather detailing convey strength and vigilance, qualities long associated with the bird in both artistic and symbolic traditions. The sculpture is signed "RUBIN", indicating the hand of the artist, and suggesting studio or artisanal production rather than industrial manufacture. The metal has developed a deep, naturally oxidized patina, enhancing the sculptural depth and emphasizing the hand-worked construction. Mounted on a stylized branch support, the composition balances realism with a slightly abstracted, modern sensibility typical of mid- to late-20th-century metal sculpture. Well-suited for display as a focal point in an interior, gallery, or covered outdoor setting, this commanding eagle sculpture exemplifies the enduring appeal of expressive animal forms rendered in metal. Dimensions: 28" L x 27" W x 19.75" H
