PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

A striking traditional silver choker from the Miao ethnic minority, crafted with chains of densely interlinked, hand-forged rings, creating a sculptural, almost chainmail-like texture. The upper section is wrapped in fine, tightly coiled silver wire, tapering gracefully to a hand-formed hook-and-loop clasp. Such pieces were traditionally worn during festivals and ceremonial events, both as displays of wealth and as expressions of intricate silversmithing skill passed down through generations. Silver metal with a rich, aged patina. Dimensions: Depth 3", Width 10", Height 10.25". Display stand included.
