PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Pair of 19th Century Parisian Bronze Lamp-Post Form Table Lamps A distinguished pair of 19th century bronze table lamps modeled after classic Parisian street lanterns of the Haussmann era. Each lamp features a tapering hexagonal lantern with beveled glass panels beneath an ornate domed crown enriched with foliate casting and surmounted by a turned finial. The lanterns are supported by slender fluted columns with decorative collars, raised on stepped hexagonal plinth bases with acanthus and molded architectural detailing. The design closely reflects the elegant gas lamp posts installed throughout Paris during the urban transformation under Baron Haussmann in the mid-to-late 19th century. The finely cast bronze displays a rich, warm patina with subtle variations consistent with age and use.
