"Red Glitters" by Hasharat is a stunning composition that combines antique and contemporary elements. Encased within an antique Napoleon III-era (c. 1890) oval glass dome, this piece features a dynamic arrangement of vibrant red glider and Adonis butterflies delicately poised on a twisting hazel wood branch. The butterflies' bright red and blue hues create a striking contrast against the natural tones of the branch, while the gentle curvature of the hazel wood adds a sense of organic movement. The 19th-century glass dome, with its elegant oval shape and historical charm, sits atop a refined black base, enhancing the display's timeless appeal. This work by Hasharat captures the beauty of nature through a modern lens, making it a captivating addition for collectors and admirers of unique decorative art.
