CREEL AND GOW

Triton Cellini silvered mounted clam shell centerpiece: Measures 9" At Creel and Gow, we take great pride in our signature silvered shells, which have been a hallmark of our collection for over 20 years. To create these exquisite pieces, we have been working with the same atelier in Rome, Italy, which has been operated by the same family for generations. Our workshop in Rome is renowned for its exceptional craftsmanship and attention to detail. The family who runs the atelier has a deep understanding of silver and has honed their skills over many years, mastering the art of silversmithing. Their expertise extends beyond creating new silver pieces as they have also worked on restoration projects for the Vatican for many decades. At Creel and Gow, we value the heritage and tradition of our atelier and the family that runs it. We work closely with them to create our signature silvered shells, which are made to the highest standards of quality and beauty. Each shell is carefully crafted by hand, with the utmost attention paid to every detail. From the initial design to the final polishing, our team works tirelessly to create pieces that are both stunning and enduring. When you purchase a Creel and Gow silvered shell, you're not just buying a beautiful piece of decor, but you're also investing in a tradition of craftsmanship that spans generations. These shells are more than just decorative items; they are timeless pieces that will be cherished for years to come. In conclusion, our signature silvered shells are a testament to the skill and artistry of the family who has been operating our workshop in Rome for generations. We're proud to have worked with them for over 20 years and to offer our customers the opportunity to own these stunning pieces. With their intricate details and exquisite beauty, these shells are a true reflection of the craftsmanship and tradition that have made our workshop in Rome world-renowned.
